

When I started to attend this workshop I was just coming as a committee member with no expectations, but during the course of the workshop I asked the question can't this workshop be conducted for the entire community because I saw that our community needs this workshop. If it can be done it can reduce the number of street kids in our communities.

The workshop was very interesting and it was delivering importance message to us. It helped us to understand how to bring up our own children first, if it was bad it will change if good it will improve. This workshop was an eye opener to us so that we are able to look after our children by understanding their language, feelings and most importantly their rights. Some of things that we do to our children thinking that we love them are not good and this workshop made us to be aware of that.

In the ECD centres where are committees members we hope that our relationship with the Principals, staff and parents will improve as now understand what are the needs of the children, role of the principals and staff members. Our roles and responsibilities as committee members we will be able to do them without fear because we have the information of how to do our work as ECD committees from this workshop, we really want to thank Hermanus Rainbow Trust, our facilitator Mr Mshenxiswa for bringing to us this important workshop and I wish it can grow to other communities as well. Previous we didn't know and now we know and we are proud of ourselves. Thank you once again to Hermanus Rainbow Trust.
